Democrats Would Oust Board of Public Works

Ouster Bill Prepared by Judge Jenkins Introduced in Common Council—It Provides For Ousting of Present Board—Public Hearing Before Mayor Block on August 15.

The first step to oust the present board of public works and for the appointment of a new board was taken by the Democratic members of the common council at the regular meeting Tuesday evening when the charter revision committee introduced "Local Law No. 2" which provides for the elimination of the present members of the board and the appointment of a new board by the mayor, superseding the city charter provision under which the present board holds office. The purpose of "Local Law No. 2" is to give control of the board to Mayor Block and also, it is said, to supplant Superintendent Henry D. Darrow and Secretary Simon K. Winchell with Democratic officials to be appointed by the new board.

"Local Law No. 2" is introduced under the provisions of the Home Rule Act, and was laid over until a public hearing on Friday evening, August 15, at which time it will be heard by the Democratic members of the board can control the vote to pass it. The bill then be sent to Mayor Morris Block who will hold a public hearing on it.

Since the first of the year the local Democrats have been seeking some method of obtaining control of the board of public works but could find no solution of the problem before the Home Rule Act went into effect. On January first Mayor Block took over the existing law would be the appointment of another member of the board, thus giving the two members of his own party, with himself as presiding officer, would constitute a majority.

The proposed ouster law, which was prepared by Corporation Counsel Jenkins, is as follows:

Local Law Number 2.

A local law in relation to the board of public works, to be enacted by the Common Council of the city of Kingston as follows:

Section 1. The board of public works shall consist of four members appointed by the mayor, as hereinafter provided, and of the mayor, who shall be a member and president of said board. Such members shall be styled "commissioners of public works." Within thirty days after this local law takes effect, the mayor shall appoint one member for a term of four years, one for a term of three years, one for a term of two years and one for a term of one year, and more than two commissioners of public works shall belong to the same political party, or be of the same political opinion on state and national issues. Appointments at the expiration of a term of a commissioner shall be for a full term of four years, and in case of a vacancy otherwise created, the unexpired term. The mayor shall be treasurer of the board, and the board may elect a secretary and such other officers as may be necessary. Immediately upon the appointment of commissioners of public works as herein provided, the terms of office of the commissioners of public works now in office shall expire.

Section 2. Section 144 of Chapter 100 of the laws of the State of New York, entitled "An act to amend chapter seven hundred and forty-seven of the laws of the State of New York, entitled 'An act to revise and consolidate the several acts in relation to the city of Kingston, to revise the charter of said city, and to establish a court of said city and define its jurisdiction and powers generally,' is hereby superseded.

Section 3. This local law shall take effect immediately.

Stamford-In-the-Catskills, Aug. 6.—The Beauty Contest to be held at the Rixmere Casino, Stamford, Delaware county, Saturday, August 16, to determine who is to be chosen "Queen of the Catskills," has received the sanction of the Atlantic City Pageant Committee. The most beautiful young lady chosen will represent "Miss Catskill" at Atlantic City, September 2-6, all her expenses being paid in full as well as those of her chaperon.

In order to make the contest thorough and give the judges plenty of material in the Catskill Mountains from which to make a decision, every young lady between the ages of 16 and 35, who is considered beautiful, is urged to enter. Each candidate must send her picture, name and home address, not later than Saturday, August 9, to Alexander Ott, Beauty Contest director, Churchill Hall, Stamford, N. Y.

Some young ladies from the counties of Delaware, Otsego, Schoharie, Albany, Greene, Ulster or Sullivan, has a good chance to win the title of "Miss Catskill," or one of the 15 prizes offered at Stamford. In addition $5,000 in prizes are offered, as well as opportunities for motion picture and physical culture contracts from the distinction and prestige that goes with the prize.

"There are just as many good looking girls in the Catskill Mountains as there are anywhere in the world," says Mr. Ott, who has made these contests famous at Miami and throughout the south. "Don't think you haven't a chance. We want to show the world that the Catskills have beautiful young ladies. Don't hesitate, send your picture now. It may mean your big opportunity for the future."

There is no expense in connection with entrance requirements. Each candidate must merely send her picture, name and address, and be present for the beauty contest review in bathing costume at Rixmere Casino swimming pool at 2 o'clock, Saturday, August 16.

Murder Rewards Efforts to Help

Philadelphia Surgeon Killed by Man Who Fancied Operation Was Responsible for His Ill Health—Uncle of Mrs. John W. Davis.

Philadelphia, Aug. 6.—Dr. Duncan L. Despard, a noted surgeon, was dead today, the victim of an insane man's thirst for vengeance for a fancied grievance. Dr. Despard died last night just as surgeons were about to operate on him.

The slayer, Alfonso Masi, a tailor, entered the doctor's office yesterday, fired five shots without warning, one of which entered Dr. Despard's lung, and then fired a bullet through his own heart. Dr. Despard's 60-year-old mother, an invalid, heard the shots from her room up-stairs in the house.

Masi, the records show, was operated on by Dr. Despard at the Methodist Hospital, where he devoted a great deal of his time to poor patients unable to pay for medical attention. It is believed Masi may have thought the operation in some way was responsible for subsequent ill health and decided to wreak vengeance on the doctor.

All the skill of medical science was used to save Dr. Despard's life, but without avail. A call for volunteers for a blood transfusion, about to be performed when he died, was answered by 22 persons.

Dr. Despard intended leaving here today for a rest and vacation. He was an uncle of the wife of John W. Davis, Democratic presidential candidate.

May Reduce All Farm Loan Rates

Extension Under Consideration of All Commodity Loans by Federal Farm Loan Board—Western Farmers Already Saved $300,000.

Washington, Aug. 6.—Farmers of the middle and northwest will be saved practically $300,000 as a result of a reduction of a half per cent on loans through intermediate credit banks on seasonal crop operations, Governor Cooper of the Federal Farm Loan Board announced today.

The rate on commodity loans to co-operative associations from the intermediate credits department of the farm loan system was cut from five and a half to five per cent several weeks ago. So far only a few loans have been made at the new rate, but Cooper anticipates that the total amount to be issued before the close of the crop movement season, will approximate $60,000,000.

Possibility of a reduction of the rate on general farm loans in the fall is under consideration by the board.

Seeks $5,000 For Injuries

Norma Cassell of No. 735 Broadway has filed a claim against the City of Kingston for $5,000 for personal injuries sustained in a fall on July 9. The claim was read at Tuesday's session of the common council and referred to Corporation Counsel James Jenkins. Miss Cassell sets forth in her claim that while walking on Clinton avenue she tripped and fell on the sidewalk in front of Doc Smith's garage. She claims the city was negligent in allowing a broken stone to remain on the walk. She alleged that her left shoulder was broken and she sustained other injuries.

Germany's Reply Goes to Allies

Raises Question of Ruhr Evacuation Which is Discussed Further in Accompanying Letter But Allies Consider it Outside Scope of Conference.

By David M. Church.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London, Aug. 6.—Germany's reply to the reparations proposals to the Allied powers was handed to the Allied council of fourteen at No. 10 Downing street at noon today.

This reply, it is understood, is not contentious and gives able assistance towards a general Allied-German agreement upon the reparations issues.

As had been anticipated, the Germans raised the question of Ruhr evacuation. The reply, it is said, opens the way for an Allied statement upon definite dates for the economic evacuation of the Ruhr; withdrawal of French and Belgian troops from the Ruhr; return of German railways taken over by the French and Belgians, and amnesty for the Germans arrested during the period of occupation.

The Germans suggested that payments in kind not be extended beyond the dates fixed by the Versailles treaty.

In addition to the reply there was a covering letter explaining Germany's attitude upon certain points.

This covering letter said that the Germans had not been able to digest the Allied proposals in their entirety and it is possible other points must be discussed verbally.

The German communication said that the German people attach particular attention to the question of Ruhr. It added that the Germans believe a settlement of the Ruhr issues is necessary to complete success.

Questions raised by the Germans regarding the Ruhr are considered by the Allies as being outside the scope of the conference. They probably will be discussed among the Allied premiers and among the Germans, French and Belgians.

From the nature of the two German documents it was apparent the Germans are making feelers. The official German reply contains 18 typewritten pages.

It is anticipated the conference will sit almost continuously until it ends. According to a report, two delegates will be appointed from each interested nation to form a council for discussion of important issues.

It is hoped that the conference can end Friday or Saturday and that the Dawes plan can be put into execution before the end of October.

Chancellor Marx, Foreign Secretary Stresemann and the other members of the German delegation worked until 3 o'clock this morning to complete the German reply to the Allied proposals.

KLUKERS EJECT MAN FROM POUGHKEEPSIE MEETING

"Who Struck Simon King?" is the much mooted question on Poughkeepsie streets. Mr. King was one of the men, who attended the Ku Klux Klan meeting at the Driving Park, Poughkeepsie, Monday evening. Mr. King, who is a wealthy merchant of Poughkeepsie, had an invitation and arrived early at the meeting and took a front seat. Just before the meeting started some of the Klan sleuths started to make an inspection, which resulted in Mr. King being thrown out very roughly. Despite his protests that although he was a Jew he was open to conviction, he was pushed out of the park. King claimed that he was hit with a blackjack and for a time was unconscious and appealed to the State Troopers for aid, but was directed to the justice of the peace. Mr. King was going to start John Doe proceedings to find out the identity of the man who struck him, but he decided later to drop the entire affair.

Flyers' Planes Weathered Storm

American Army Aviators Buffeted Sixty Mile Gales in Reaching Reykjavik—Uncertain When Next Lap Will Begin.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Reykjavik, Iceland, Aug. 6.—Lt. Lowell Smith and Lt. Erik Nelson, American army world-circling aviators, who arrived yesterday afternoon from Hlof Hornafjord, rested up today none the worse for their daring 300 mile journey through a forty to sixty mile gale.

Examination of the planes in the harbor showed that they were in excellent condition. They weathered the storm without defect.

It is not yet certain when the remaining two aviators of the four that started from Los Angeles, California, in March, will undertake their flight from Iceland to Greenland, owing to ice conditions off the Greenland coast.

The American flyers are guests of the municipality. They are quartered outside the town.

A wireless dispatch from the Danish steamship Gertrud Rask said she had arrived at Angmagssalik originally selected as the first stopping of the Americans on the Greenland coast.

According to the Danish ship, ice conditions have improved somewhat off the port of Angmagssalik. There is still a heavy fog lying in front of Angmagssalik, which made it extremely difficult for the sturdy Danish vessel to reach the harbor.

American officers are conferring as to when Smith and Nelson shall undertake the next hop. American warcraft are taking up stations along the next leg of the route to report weather conditions.

The American cruiser Milwaukee has reached Iqviut, off the southern extremity of Greenland. Fog and ice are reported off that port.

Public Library Control Charged

American Federation of Labor Thinks "Predatory Interests" are Seeking Censorship of Public Reading Matter.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 6.—A censorship of the American people's reading matter "by predatory interests" through control of public libraries by private foundations, being established all over the country, was charged today by the librarian's union in a report to the executive council of the American Federation of Labor.

The charge was leveled primarily at the Carnegie Foundation, an immediate investigation of the charge was ordered by the council.

Chief points of the librarian's union charge follow:

1. That Carnegie libraries are not controlled by the municipalities in which they exist and to which they have been given.
2. That such libraries are controlled by boards of trustees in no sense responsible to the people, but appointed generally by the Foundations themselves, or with their approval.
3. Such control under the terms of the Carnegie contracts is perpetual.
4. Public moneys appropriated by cities and states pass out of the control of the givers immediately upon their donation and are administered by the Foundations or their trustees.
5. That there is rapidly coming into being a system under which only books approved in a certain manner may be placed on Foundation-library shelves and that amounts to a censorship and is so intended.

Alienist Says Leopold, One of Chicago Boy Slayers, is a Sublime Egotist Who Compares Himself to France's Conqueror.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Criminal Court, Chicago, Ill., Aug. 6.—"A boy without remorse, without regret and utterly lacking in normal human emotion."

This was the picture of Richard A. Loeb, "Angel Face Dickey," the girls used to call him, that was painted in Judge Caverly's courtroom today by Dr. Bernard Glueck, an alienist, formerly in charge of the psychiatric department at Sing Sing prison.

Dr. Glueck said he had been dealing with criminal minds for 15 years and he unhesitatingly pronounced the slayer of young Bobby Franks as the most "incomprehensible and unusual one" of the lot.

Incidentally, Dr. Glueck revealed that it was Loeb and not his intellectual accomplice, Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., who actually swung the cold chisel on the head of the Franks boy after they had coaxed him into their automobile. "Dickey" himself told him of it, Dr. Glueck said, in the most matter of fact way and without a hint of horror or remorse.

"I have observed many criminals, hardened criminals," said Dr. Glueck, "among them many men who were awaiting execution, and yet I was amazed by the absolute lack of any normal feeling, any emotion, any regret, that characterized his story to me of the Franks homicide."

"It is incomprehensible except on the basis of a disordered personality. 'Never before have I seen such a profound disparagement between the intellectual and the emotional.'"

Dr. Glueck said that "Dickey" talked to him about his own possible hanging for the Franks crime with precisely the same lack of emotion or fear or regret that he talked about the child murder.

"He said to me 'It's too bad a fellow can't read about it in the newspapers,'" said Dr. Glueck.

Discord in His Make-up.

"This boy," said Dr. Glueck, of Loeb "is suffering from a disordered personality, arising principally from a profound pathological discord between his intellectual and emotional beings."

"Intellectually he is capable of orienting himself with regard to the various situations that arise about him but he is quite incapable of endowing these situations with any emotion."

"In this sense, it may be said, he has a 'split personality.'"

With regard to the causes of this remarkable condition, Dr. Glueck was mainly in accord with all the other alienists who have preceded him—a home of great wealth, precociousness, childhood phantasies and the growth of his intellect while the emotional side of his nature lay dormant, stagnant and finally shriveled.

He carried these childhood phantasies, the alienist said, forward into his life as it approached maturity.

Tried to Kill Emotions.

That completed the psychiatric picture of Loeb and Dr. Glueck then took up Leopold.

The immediately striking thing about Leopold, Glueck said, was his unusually active brain and well developed intellect. Leopold is slightly more emotional than Loeb, although he is astonishingly lacking in this respect.

"He told me," said Glueck, "that from the age of seven or eight he deliberately set out to kill all sympathy, conscience and other human emotions within him."

Leopold made considerable progress in this respect, Dr. Glueck found, and the result was that his intellect became over-developed and his emotional side, like that of Loeb's, stunted, warped and twisted.

"His intellect is really superior," Dr. Glueck said.

A Sublime Egotist.

The intellectual progress that Leopold made, however, made of him a naturally sublime egotist and this egotism became more and more pronounced as he progressed in his education.

Leopold never displayed any more compassion or sympathy or remorse than did Loeb in speaking of the Franks crime, Glueck said. The doctor recounted one conversation he had with the boys, in course of which Loeb was asked:

"How did you feel when Mrs. Franks was on the stand?"

And he replied:

"Oh, I didn't have any feeling at all."

Mrs. Franks had been a most pathetic figure on the stand. She was clad in heavy black and her face was tear stained and broken with lines of sorrow that were easily visible to the young slayers, sitting 20 feet away.

As Loeb said he didn't have any feeling at all at the sight of the weeping mother of their victim, Leopold, the doctor said, broke in and asked with a laugh:

"What do you mean, was he joyous or sad?"

Leopold, Glueck said, made the inquiry laughingly.

In his jail life Leopold was described by the alienist as one of the most sublime egotists he ever encountered.

"I asked him," said the doctor, "whether he had any objection if I told on the stand some of the more intimate little things of his life that he had related to me and he told me, 'No, I'd rather hang.'"

"He thinks that he a heroic, if somewhat tragic figure. Some people despise him and some probably

Missed Island in Fog by Two Feet

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London, Aug. 6.—A thick fog along the Kamchatka coast which prevented the flyers seeing more than 100 yards in front of them, caused the disaster which compelled Flight Commander A. Stuart MacLaren, of the British air force, to abandon his round the world journey after finishing about three-quarters of it, according to advices received today from MacLaren.

"The fog was so thick it almost blinded my pilot," said MacLaren. "Suddenly he averted the plane and avoided a small island by only two feet. It disappeared from view a few seconds later. We judged we were in danger of striking cliffs so decided to make a forced landing. We hit the ocean along a strong swell and both top wings were shattered and wrecked off."

The rooms on the second floor of the building, 268 Fair street, over the Opera Lunch, which have been recently modernized by Mrs. David Burgevin, the owner of the property, have been rented to the board of education through the committee who have been seeking a suitable place for the location of the opportunity school. The rooms are well-lighted and easily reached.

Heat Kills Two In Pittsburgh

admirer him but he considers himself as a Napoleon on St. Helena.

Leopold expounded to Dr. Glueck in his conversations the same "philosophy" that he expounded to the other doctors—that anything that gave him pleasure was right, even to kidnapping and murder.

"I asked him," "Well, don't you realize that such a philosophy is leading you straight to self destruction?" and he said he didn't care.

"Finally he gradually came to introducing his phantasy life into real life."

Had "King-Slave" Phantasy.

Dr. Glueck then recounted the famous "king-slave" phantasy previously related by his predecessors, how Leopold considered himself in his mental-draming a very powerful slave, serving a king, who, in this case, was Loeb. He pictured himself as saving Loeb's life, of dying for the king and serving the king in many devious ways.

"He told me of his abject devotion to Loeb," said the doctor.

"He even told me he was jealous of the food and drink that Loeb consumed because he could not come as close to Loeb as did that food and drink."

Early Drawings of Crucifixion.

"He told me that in his early phantasying he was always seeing the crucifixion, always seeing people nailed down."

"I was interested in going over his college note books and I found on the margins of many of them drawings, usually depicting the crucifixion. These of course were done while his mind was wandering in the class room."

"As I go over these things, this delusional transformation of his personality, I cannot escape the conclusion that he was heading for self destruction."

"Leopold in my mind, is and has been for some time, developing a paranoid personality, in which there is the element of a pathological exaggeration of his ego. It may be he is on the way to developing psychosis—mentally disordered."

What Association Furnished.

"Considering them both together, this crime is incomprehensible unless there is considered their relationship. Each one brought into this association a background of curious delusions and active egotistic mental life."

"The thing that brought them together offered them each a kind of satisfaction which they could not have had without each other."

To Loeb the association meant he was to get a willing accomplice in the carrying out of his grand, lofty criminal ideas.

"Leopold found in Loeb an opportunity to give himself in abject slavery, in this delusional phantasy life of his."

"He is and has been a definite paranoid personality, and I believe he is developing a definite paranoid psychosis," the psychiatrist said of Leopold.

At 12:10 o'clock Dr. Glueck finished his direct testimony and was turned over to State's Attorney Crowe for cross-examination.

Crowe's first question was:

"When did Loeb tell you he actually struck the blow that caused Franks's death?"

A heated argument ensued over this, which resulted in Judge Caverly's adjourning court until 1:45 in order to permit the alienist to examine his notes without "wasting an hour's time."

State Clinics For the Crippled

Infantile Paralysis Epidemic of 1916
Left Thousands of Crippled Children Whose Rehabilitation Is Being Undertaken by State.

During the first six months of 1924 thirty-five clinics for the after-care of cases crippled as a result of poliomyelitis were held in New York state under the supervision of the state department of health. A total of 655 patients were examined and advised at these clinics.

The severe epidemic of infantile paralysis in 1916 left many thousands of crippled children in its wake.
At that time most physicians were unfamiliar with the best methods of treating these unfortunates so that their rehabilitation might be secured and they eventually made self-supporting citizens of the state. Accordingly the state department of health organized a service for the after-care of these little ones with a staff of competent nurses working under the supervision of an expert orthopedic surgeon. The surgeon covered the whole state, clinics in each section periodically at which cases were examined and treatment advised. The nurses were each given a definite district and each crippled child was subsequently treated by a nurse according to the direction of the surgeon. The success of these clinics was almost immediately apparent. The limbs of hundreds of helpless children have been restored to usefulness.

Not only have the clinics been successful from the viewpoint of results but they have been of enormous educational value. Large numbers of the physicians in the state have referred individual patients in their own practices to the clinics and by close observation of the methods used by the orthopedic surgeon, many general practitioners have become better prepared to treat the paralyzes following poliomyelitis. Parents have also learned that the best results can be obtained only through medical care, and patronage of illegal practitioners has decreased accordingly.

In addition to the examination and treatment offered by the state department of health, provision has been made whereby special shoes, braces and other types of apparatus, sometimes too expensive for the parents to purchase outright, may be obtained on the partial payment plan through the offices of the department. During the first six months of this year 173 pieces of apparatus have been supplied by the department under this plan. During the past four years the state has purchased nearly $15,000 worth of apparatus and has lost less than 3 per cent of its investment through the neglect of individual purchases to complete their payments.

At present there is a total of 1,795 patients under state supervision; of these 1,262 suffered with their attacks of poliomyelitis since 1916, and only 533 had the disease prior to that time.

August 6, 1890, 34 years ago today,
in New York State Prison at Sing-Sing. The law substituting electro-cution for hanging in N. Y. State was passed 36 years ago.

Kemmler's attorney's fought it as "cruel and unusual punishment," therefore unconstitutional, and for two years saved the condemned man from his fate. In 1890 the law was upheld by the courts, and the doomed man was conducted through "the little green door" that led from the death house to "the chair" into which he was strapped and thousands of volts of electricity sent through his body.

CATHERINE OF BRAGANZA.

Was the wife of Charles II, of England, and began life under the most favorable and auspicious circumstances, yet her life at the English Court was miserable indeed. She was born November 25, 1638, and at the age of 24 was married to Charles II. She arrived at Portsmouth in May 1662, and Charles being waiting to receive her, the marriage ceremony was performed privately by the Archbishop of Canterbury, according to the Roman Catholic Ritual. Soon her royal husband's attitude towards her changed from amability to complete indifference, which she endured for 23 years, as she also learned to endure Charles's mistresses with coldness, including the lady of the bed chamber. The Duchess of Cleveland, favorite of her spouse. At last loneliness and despair compelled her to make confidants of Charles's mistresses. On his said to have gone about masked and gone into houses and dined there, "with great and wild frolic." On his death bed, Catherine by his side, grief-stricken, asked his forgiveness, for any offense she may have given him, he replied, "Alas, poor woman, she begs my pardon. I beg hers with all my heart." Catherine died at Lisbon, December 21, 1705.

THE OREGON CONVENTION.

A joint convention between the United States and Great Britain was concluded 97 years ago today, by which the articles of 1819, providing for the joint occupation of Oregon, were indefinitely extended, with the provision that either party might an-null the agreement on 12 months notice.

By these conventions the status of the vast territory present Province of British Columbia and the States of Oregon and Washington was left undecided. Neither country cared much about the "wilderness" and the Hudson's Bay Company exercised a shadowy sovereignty over the whole immense country.

There came to be a general sort of agreement that the 49th parallel should mark the boundary between British and United States territory.
The Americans were the first to see that the country was not as worthless as had been supposed, and demanded that the government take steps to take possession of the entire Pacific coast up to Russian Alaska. In 1846 the United States served notice on Great Britain that the conventions would be abrogated at the end of the year, and after some discussions, commissioners were appointed to settle the boundaries.

ENTER THE AUTUMN HAT.

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

Once August comes, interest in summer hats lags. Inappropriate though it is to wear velvets and felts under an August sun, custom has approved such choice.

New hats are remarkable for their greatly enlarged crowns, and for many eccentricities in trim lines.
For the swan song of the cloche has been sung. Even Rose Descat, high priestess of the cloche, has turned brims up, and not down, in making tricorners, and is doing all manner of things to make the small hat capable of variation.

Winsome Negligees for Milady's Leisure Hours

Negligees, those filmy things that float and cling about the figure during leisure hours, are more floating and clinging than usual this year. From the shoulders they float, wide wing-shaped draperies that sweep full and long to the floor. These are fashioned of chiffon, georgette lace or other soft fabrics.

They cling by means of crepe or satin panels that hang straight down the front or back, girdled in a medley way with tasseled cords, or garlands of little ribbon flowers.

On many of them the side drapes are of two thicknesses—two colors of chiffon or georgette, or lace over one of these transparent fabrics. Some of them show elaborate embroidered designs on the straight-hanging panels.

Of course, there are other models shown, too. One particularly pretty one was made of light-blue crepe-back with cut wide at the shoulders to a short kimono sleeve effect and low at the front to a moderate V-neckline.

Otherwise it hung with the straight line of the chemise dress. About the neck and sleeves were bands of wide hand-embroidered batiste which formed a suggestion of sleeves, and a soft thin collar. A patch of the same embroidery was applied below the belt as a pocket for the lace-edged handkerchief. It was finished with double-faced ribbon.

The changeable taffeta and soft with breakfast coats are much in vogue trimmed with ruffles of self-fabric or frills of narrow lace or net. They are caught here and there with little bunches of flowers which endear them to the feminine heart.

Scarf Is Popular for Wear on All Occasions

Elsewhere and on all occasions this season one meets the scarf in one form or another. No costume seems quite complete without this accessory. The strictly tailored suit favors the scarf arranged close about the neck in the manner of a stock collar, while afternoon frocks feature the wider, longer scarves of soft silk, georgette or chiffon. But whatever the particular type of scarf, they are all easy to make. A length of printed material with enough plain-colored silk for the border is quickly transformed into a very attractive scarf. Machine hem-stitching may be used where the border is joined.

Then the woman who embroiders may beautify a scarf of plain silk with colorful handwork. The Vogue of painting may also be taken advantage of for decorating the summer scarf. Roman-striped silks are very fashionable for the new scarves, which in some instances are shawl-like in their proportions. Fringe, of course, always adds a distinctive finish, and for evening and formal occasions there are lovely lace scarves and flattering ostrich-feather neckpieces.—Designer Magazine.

Popular Color Scheme

Bright red used alone or red and white combined are conspicuously featured in the modes of summer.

THE STORY OF THE HOLY NAME SOCIETY

By The VERY REVEREND M. J. RIPLE, O. P. P. G., National Director
(Copyright, 1921, By M. J. Ripple)

(Installment Four)

The prestige which the appointment of a member of the Sacred College as the special advocate of the Holy Name Society in the Roman Curia gives to the Holy Name Society represents an influence and an endorsement not equalled by that of any other organization of laymen in the Catholic Church.

Junior Holy Name Society

The development of Holy Name work among the young boys of the Junior Branches has been one of the gratifying phases of Holy Name growth in the past fifteen years. From the Junior Branches the adult Branches are continually recruited. The Holy Name idea being firmly implanted in the impressionable years of life gives an assurance of permanency which is calculated to help the Holy Name ideals win out in the great moral battlegrounds of after life.

Holy Name directors deal differently with the problems surrounding the organization of Junior Holy Name Societies. In many localities schoolboys only are admitted into the Junior Holy Name Branches and their ranks are recruited from boys of the Seventh and Eighth Grade and throughout the High School years.

Other Directors maintain the custom of associating all boys regardless of whether they attend school or not up to the age of eighteen in the Junior Branches. But no matter what may be the custom as to whether school boys only should be restricted to the Junior Branches the idea of inculcating as early in life as possible the idea into the mind of the boy that it is unmanly to curse and swear or to use bad language in any form is the fundamental work of the Junior Branch. The Holy Name Society works up such a spirit among the boys. A real boy wants to be popular with the crowd and to be regarded as the man among his boy friends. A surprisingly great number of boys are given to the use of profane and unbecoming language just out of the natural tendency in a boy to imitate men.

It is nothing short of a National calamity that the habit of profaning the Holy Name, of cursing, swearing and using indecent speech is so widespread among grown-up men. Recently the celebrated cartoonist Clare A. Briggs in a pen sketch entitled "When a Fellow Needs a Friend" graphically portrayed the scandal and the moral shock which a little fellow receives from hearing his elders using outrageous and indecent language.

While the spread of the Holy Name Society throughout the United States has been generally by Father McKenna and his zealous associates, the local building up of the Society in the various dioceses fell into masterful hands.

General Expansion
When the idea of organizing the Holy Name Societies into Diocesan Unions was reduced to a practical basis a special Committee waited upon the Archbishop of New York to have their plan approved and a Spiritual Director for the whole Archdiocese appointed. Archbishop Michael J. Corrigan, with that far-seeing vision which was his characteristic, recognized that this new Holy Name movement was worthy of the ablest leadership which his jurisdiction could produce. His appointment of Monsignor Joseph F. Mooney as Supreme Spiritual Director for the Archdiocese of New York vindicated the wisdom of his choice.

For more than thirty years the great Monsignor with admirable wisdom and unapproachable zeal presided over the destinies of the New York Union and watched its development from a little group of five Societies to a grand total of three hundred and seven branches and from a membership of a few hundred to a grand total of one hundred and five thousand. In 1913 the late Cardinal Farley in a letter to his clergy urged the establishment of the Holy Name Society in every Parish of the Archdiocese.

On the Jersey side of the Hudson River for the diocese of Newark which embraces the northern end of the State of New Jersey, the genius of ecclesiastical leadership of Monsignor John A. Sheppard has advanced the growth and development of the North Jersey Union to a point of perfection not exceeded in the whole Holy Name world. The grand annual Holy Name Rally, wherein simultaneously in nine different sections of the diocese, from seventy-five to eighty thousand men take part in the parade, has for more than twenty years been an outstanding feature of the Holy Name activity of this masterful leader. Ranking in zeal with these two great Holy Name giants, we recall the names of Bishop Owen B. Corrigan, the founder of the Baltimore Archdiocesan Union, Father Polk, C. S.S.R. of the New Orleans, La. Union, Father McCoy and Monsignor M. J. Spillane of the Boston Union and Bishop McGavick of Chicago. These men and many other leaders of equal zeal in other centers have carried on the work of organization from State to State and have accomplished wonders in consolidating a dignified and sane American manhood into a most praiseworthy and religious patriotic organization.

Holy Name Big Brothers
"To keep a Society alive you must give it something to do," declared Archbishop Mundelein shortly after his appointment to the See of Chicago, and so he charged the Holy Name Societies of his Archdiocese with the care of the Big Brother movement which had already been taken up by the Holy Name Union before his coming. The limitations of this article prevent the insertion here of the description of this laudable work which it deserves. Sufficient to say that several other Holy Name centers have followed successfully the lead of Chicago in the Big Brother work.

The Holy Name Rally
The great publicity of the Holy Name movement is the Holy Name Rally. There is not an important city in America to-day that has not been made acquainted with the Holy Name Rally. In fact, this Holy Name Rally parade or procession in honor of the Holy Name has been a feature of the Holy Name movement during the whole of the six hundred and fifty years of its existence. Everywhere during the whole history of the Society the enemies of religion have misconstrued the motives of these Holy Name processions and have accused those who participate in them of the most outrageous things. But on the other hand, the persistent good example, the absolute single mindedness and the clearly obvious reason for which these processions have been held, constitute a Holy Name Rally in America, as it has in other parts of the world at all times, one of the greatest public factors for civic and religious good.

In the beginning the evil minded and the bigot saw in the Holy Name Rallies a menace to American liberties, the proposed capture of the American Government for the Pope, and a lot of other rot. In Paterson, which in those far off days was nationally known as the hotbed of anarchy and radicalism, the opposition to the annual Holy Name Rally occasionally threatened to be characterized by open violence. But everywhere the silent, steady, persistent, annual procession of faith in the Doctrine of Christ's Divinity, the constant, annual, overwhelming protest by these public processions against blasphemy, perjury, cursing, swearing and profanity, had its inevitable influence. Paterson is no longer the headquarters for the Nation's vilest enemies. The spirit of fraternity, tolerance and good will which pervades the whole northern section of New Jersey can be largely credited to the work of the Holy Name Annual Rallies.

New York, Brooklyn, Baltimore, New Orleans, Boston, Providence, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Scranton, Cincinnati, Covington and a score of other great American centers have gazed with profound respect and with deepest affection upon these great Rallies of the Holy Name Society.

Learning the Other Fellow's Language

One of the greatest sources of misunderstanding in the world to-day lies in the fact that so few people understand the other fellow's language. By this is meant mental language more than physical language. It seems difficult for many of us to get the other fellow's point of view; to understand his mental processes, his method of thought and the character of his emotions. This is exemplified in the following incident: "An American was recently touring in Montreal. He had just come from New York. Unfamiliar with the strange sights which met his eye and unfamiliar, particularly with the traffic laws of the Canadian City, he essayed to cross the street and was struck down by an automobile. A kindly Montreal policeman quickly came to his aid. Observing that the victim of the accident was American the policeman, whose only language was French, wished to know if the American could speak French and so he addressed him "Parlez vous Francaise?" to which the American, thinking the question bore some reference to the accident, replied "No, Chevrolet Coupe." Neither one of these men understood the other fellow's language.

And so it is with those who do not understand the Holy Name parade or Rally. The Holy Name Rally is simply a public act of Faith in the great belief in Christ's Divinity made by the members of the Holy Name Society. It is a public protest against perjury, blasphemy, profanity and obscene speech. It is a public pledge of patriotism and of the support of law and order. For six and a half centuries the Holy Name Society has attempted nothing else.

President Coolidge, Son of Farmer, Knows Problems And Arduous Duties Imposed on Nation's Soil Tillers

PRESERVING A FAVORITE
OLD TREE AT PLYMOUTH

COOLIDGE
DID A LITTLE MILKING

HAYING ON HIS FATHER'S FARM
ABOUT 1890

Perennially, aspirants to public office, mindful of the farmer vote, become converts to the cause of agriculture and the farmer and demand justice for the tillers of the soil.

To them there is no significance in the fact that they have been little concerned with this great division of the citizenry during the off-campaign season. The vote's the thing, and one may look from the time of the November election for a veritable deluge of oratory and pictorial evidence that all candidates are for "justice for the farmer." More often than not it is an artificial sponsorship calculated to mislead the Man With the Hoe.

An exception to the rule is refreshing. Calvin Coolidge early took his place upon the farm. Born in Plymouth, Vermont, twelve miles from the nearest railroad depot, he is the son of a dirt farmer and has experienced all the hardships, reverses and arduous labors that fall to the lot of the farmer boy. One biographer has said of him:

"While many of the boys of today are reversing putting on the golf green, Cal was happy in pursuing to its native lair the sportive potato. He early and always has been an artist in the mowing and he early became an adept in divorcing the lowing herd from the raw material which makes for butter and cheese."

He took the oath of office in the Coolidge farm house. And, as the biographer has pointed out, the bovine of Plymouth, Vermont, have enjoyed a rare distinction. It is not every cow that can be milked by a President of the United States, any more than it is every President of the United States that can milk a cow. President Coolidge not only is "at home" on a farm. A farm is home to the Chief Magistrate of the land.

The same farm smock and boots he wore when the pictures were taken still repose in the hall closet of the old family home and await his pleasure. He knows how to wear them, and what is of more interest to his fellow farmers, what to do after he puts them on.

"He has always adorned a hay rake pose for the above photographs, either. They were taken years ago, when he was Vice-President and before there was any intimation that he was destined to hold the highest office in the land. It was during a vacation

That would appear to make him eligible, at least, for consideration by the farmer.

TALK TOO MUCH.

Granting that the Bryans, Charles and William, are not without some measure of ability, no one family can occupy the center of the stage and talk interminably without saying something that will fall to meet with popular approval. Those who talk too much think too little, and the Bryans, conceding their capacity, talk so much that they lose in prestige that which they might retain with better control. The rule does not apply alone to the Bryans, it applies generally. How often is it said, "So and so is a bright fellow, but he talks too much?"

It will be recalled that when the question of Defense Day was suggested Governor Bryan apparently saw a chance to get his name in the papers. At that time he offered no objection, but this was before he had been nominated. As a matter of fact, according to Secretary Weeks, the attitude of Governor Bryan was then distinctly favorable. Subsequently he altered his opinion, and it would appear that his reason was to withhold endorsement of anything coming from Republican sources. Hence it would have been just as well for the Democratic candidate for vice president to have kept still in the first place and not give support one moment to withdraw it the next.

During the Democratic national convention, it will be recalled, the most vigorous opponent of John W. Davis was William J. Bryan. Here was another instance, and in the same family, of talking too much and getting involved. William J. said it would sound the death knell of the Democracy were Davis nominated. But Davis was named and William Jennings Bryan came out with a statement supporting the same John W. Davis he charged with being the tool of Wall street. It would seem as if the two incidents would prove that the Bryans talk too much and think too little, even though they think some.

Under the circumstances Charles would have been as well off had he said nothing one way or the other relative to Defense Day, because favoring it one minute and criticizing it the next helped him none, and hurt him some. It is just as clear that William J. would have been as well off had he withheld his attack on Mr. Davis, made on the floor of the convention, for assailing him one day and declaring his approval of him the next did not help William J. Talking too much is a dangerous practice, and it does not make any difference who does the talking.

LASTING SUSPICION.

It has been the contention of friends of the barge canal that the Democratic party has never been any too fond of the state waterway and that had the Democratic organization the courage it would have abandoned it some time since. There has never been offered what could be considered definite proof of the opposition of the Democratic administration, but there has been what some say is a lack of enthusiasm on the part of Democrats relative to the utilization of the "big ditch." It may be remembered that a year or so ago there was a meeting of canal supporters at Syracuse, called to protect the canal, it being reported that an effort was afoot to abandon the waterway.

Soon after the Democrats went into power in the state in 1923, it was rumored that it would only be a question of time when the barge canal would be a thing of the past as the administration had no faith in it and was convinced that it should be closed as an economical move. It was suspected then that there was something sinister at work against the canal. This was strengthened later when it was stated that Superintendent Greene had made some attack on it that identified him as one of those opposed to the canal. He went to Syracuse, however, and declared any opposition and also declared his friendship for the waterway.

Granting that all Mr. Greene said was sincere and that all his commissioner of canals, R. K. Fuller, may say as to the ambition of the bureau of canals to make the waterway a success, there is a suspicion that there is no particular love for the canal in the Democratic administration even now after Greene has pledged his support and Fuller has declared his devotion to the inland river. There is little doubt as to this or there would have been no charge through the Maritime Association that the canal was not getting proper attention.

According to the reports of a meeting in New York, Commissioner Fuller, like his superior officer, F. S. Greene, went to the Metropolitan and denied that there was anything being overlooked to keep the canal navigable. He said it was in better shape than ever and that there was politics in the charge that it was not being kept at a proper depth. In this respect he was perhaps right, because it is generally accepted that wherever R. K. Fuller registers there will surely be some politics. At any rate, it seems impossible to convince the people of any sincere desire of the Democratic organization for the canal, which means so much to shippers of the state and nation.

BETTER HEALTH.

When you think of the great number of people crowded on the little island called England, you are apt to think that they would push one another off into the sea.

And yet it is really only in London with its teeming millions, and a couple of other cities, that there is really much congestion.

A few miles out of London and you are in the quiet green fields, and the fine country roads and lanes.

And what about the health of these people?

Why the death rate for 1923 was the lowest in the entire history of England, "better even than when the population was only half the present figure."

Two reasons are assigned for this. First, the health officers take their work very seriously, and from the baby in the cradle to the industrial worker in the factory, there is supervision, with the sanitary education for the individual that goes with this supervision.

The late hours in the retail stores and the overtime work in the factories are now becoming the exception instead of the rule.

Everywhere throughout the land the thought of health looms larger in the minds of the people than does the thought of wealth.

A hike in the country means more to an English child than a visit to the movies.

In other words the outdoors is the first love of the English people.

The second reason for better health, and lower death rate is said to be due to improvement in the food of the British people.

England is an island and depends upon her foreign trade for much of her raw and manufactured materials. And she has learned to eat the foods from all parts of the world brought on her ships.

Meat, eaten once a week in former years, is now eaten at least once a day by almost everybody.

This is possible on account of the outdoor life of the people.

English people have always been fond of vegetables, and their market places are just hives of industry on market days.

But the big thing about the English people is that they live health, and everything is done that will give them a chance to get outdoors.

Cooperate for Bus Terminals

Citizen Believes Bus Owners, Trolley Company and Merchants Should Cooperate in Sensible Plan for Bus Terminals by Which Everyone Would Benefit.

Kingston, N. Y., Aug. 5, 1924.

Editor of The Freeman:

Dear Sir:—I have read with interest from time to time the letters relating to suggestions from various sources and the discussions in the common council regarding a bus terminal. The article from "An Observer" in The Freeman of July 30 is one of the best that you have published.

This matter seems to be one for general discussion, especially in the common council where a great deal has been said with little results as to obtaining and maintaining a convenient and respectable terminal. Is this a matter for the common council to decide alone? It would appear to the layman that there should be better cooperation with this body from other sources especially from the bus owners and the merchants of this city as they are the ones that derive the profit. The local trolley company should also be included and should be friendly to instead of antagonistic with the bus owners as there is an excellent opportunity for cooperation with profit to both.

Let us treat this under the following titles:

First, Present stations.

Second, Number of stations to be maintained and where located.

Third, Who should maintain these stations?

Fourth, Cooperation between bus owners, trolley company and merchants.

Present Stations—Little remains to be said regarding these stations, as there has already been so much said that they must be familiar to everyone. I will therefore pass over this subject briefly, under the heads of uptown, central and downtown stations. Starting with the uptown which is, as we all know, located on one of the narrowest streets in the city; which, when busses are there leaves little if any room for a car to pass through this street.

Another fault at this station is that there is no room or place designated as a waiting room wherein the patrons of the busses may wait until the bus they wish to take leaves. The central station is in one of the most out of the way places that it could possibly be, a stranger in the city would have to take a bus from this station and have a hard job to find it, even if directed to it, and once there, if his opinion of the city is to be derived from the type of station that he will find here, you cannot expect him to be a very good advertiser for the hospitality of the city. The downtown station is the better of the three except in matter of location, it being on a narrow street and one of the most congested in the city.

Number of Stations to be Maintained and Where Located.—The main question seems to be: Shall we maintain one station or three and where? This it appears is the subject from which all the discussions in the common council and various individuals arise. There can be no room for doubt in the mind of any person who has taken the time to investigate that there is a need for a station centrally located. It is from this point that those employed in the factories and those coming in by boat or train wait for the bus.

As the need for this station is generally accepted the one that is causing most of the trouble is: Shall we maintain uptown and downtown stations and where? In nearly every city that I have visited only one station is maintained, but our conditions are somewhat different from theirs in that the business of the city is not generally centered as it is in most cities. It would therefore seem that three stations should be maintained unless there is cooperation between the busses and the trolleys. This subject will be taken up later. We have already discussed the present location of these stations, now let us discuss others.

I agree with "An Observer" that Pine Grove avenue is the ideal place for a parking place in the central part of the city, out of the way of traffic but not enough so as to make it inconvenient to the patrons of the busses or the owners. If a room could be procured at the Y. M. C. A. for a waiting room this station would be unusually well taken care of.

While waiting at the O. & W. station for a train I have noticed the unloading platform and vacant space at the rear of the Rose-Gorman-Rose department store and have thought that an ideal bus station could be made there. The one obstacle to this location would be that the busses must use for a short distance a somewhat congested street. The present location of this station is good if the busses could park in the space formerly occupied by the hotel barn and a room in the hotel was designated and furnished for a waiting room. There is nothing that I can say as to a new place for the downtown station as this has been a problem for those more familiar with the situation than I am.

Who should maintain the station or stations? This is another question that has caused considerable agitation, especially in the common council and is one that requires some consideration, for if we are to maintain three stations it involves quite an expense. Personally, I cannot see why the city should maintain these stations, at an expense to the already overburdened taxpayer, they do not derive any direct personal benefit from them, on the other hand the bus owners and the merchants do receive a direct benefit from them and here, it would appear, is where the maintenance really should come from. Let us here take up the fourth and last mentioned subject.

Cooperation between the bus owners, trolley company and merchants. The traction company, not only of this city but of nearly every other city, complains that the busses are a liability to their businesses, they really should be an asset if they would cooperate and I am sure that they would be if they would get together, instead of being antagonistic. Let us get cooperation here from three sources, the busses, trolley company and the merchants and see what could be accomplished.

As an example let us say that we have a bus station, centrally located to which all busses must enter and leave, making no stops to pick up or drop passengers, except at points to be designated near the outskirts of the city where it would not interfere with the trolley service. The trolley would receive at this station the passengers for their designated points about the city. Cooperation could easily be taken care of between these branches of public service by means of transfers, the value to be determined by those interested.

This brings us to the cooperation from the merchants, as a great many of the people travelling by bus are people who come to the city to shop and trade it is to the interest of the merchants to give assistance to all ways and means of transportation that will bring trade and be a credit to our city.

Mother Seal Brings

Up Family Strictly

Maternal discipline is as pronounced among the seal families as among human beings, according to men who have spent many years along the shores of Cook Inlet, Alaska, and have studied aquatic life there.

From the time a baby seal is laid snugly within a bed of dry seaweed until he receives a final spanking and is directed to hustle for himself, he is subjected to unrelenting discipline. Contrary to popular belief, a baby seal is as helpless in the water at birth as a human baby would be. It must be taught to swim and instructed in all the lore of seal life, including how to hunt food and escape its enemies.

Charles Conch, who has made half seal hunting a business for years, says he has watched a mother seal teaching her baby to swim. The mother would flounder out on the rocky shore, gather the baby under her flipper and slip carefully into the water. Suspending the baby on her flipper, she would bark, grunt, whine and wheedle to indicate what was desired. If the baby refused to perform, it was effectively spanked with the mother's flipper. The young seal gradually learns to swim by floundering a few strokes at a time, with the mother snatching it from danger every time it becomes exhausted or starts to sink.

Some of the beachcombers adopt baby seals as pets. They become as faithful as dogs and, if one decides to banish them, are as hard to get rid of as cats. An instance was cited where a baby seal was taken out to sea in the hope that it would reunite with its herd. About midnight there was a plaintive wail at the cabin door. Like the traditional cat, the seal had come back. He howled until he was admitted to the family circle and fed a piece of fish.

Lecture on Peace At Chautauqua

"Abduction" May End in Marriage

Speaker Declares World is Not "Fool Proof" but Deplores Expenditures Connected with War—Entertainment Program Enjoyed.

In spite of the heat, Chautauqua was well attended at all of the sessions on Tuesday. The boys and girls had a good time, and learned quite a bit about the governing of a city at the Junior Chautauqua.

The first part of the afternoon's program was devoted to a recital given by Miss Babcock, violinist and Miss Ringgold, pianist. Both played well, and they gave a pleasing program that received merited applause.

The chief feature of the afternoon was a lecture, "Is the World Fool Proof," given by the Rev. Dr. Hardin of Ithaca.

The real theme of Dr. Hardin's lecture was the necessity of a preparation for peace instead of a preparation for another war, if civilization is not to be wiped off the earth and more suffering entailed upon the world. He told of the expenditures at present of $2,900,000,000 yearly which he claimed was being used to prepare for the next war and said that the best brains of the world today are engaged in planning for this war of the future. He did not believe there was such a thing as fool-proof mechanism, a fool-proof nation or a fool-proof civilization. He gave comparisons as to the enormous expenditures of nations "to kill people" and the "modest" expenditures "to save life," in the fight against tuberculosis, as an instance. The theory that war is a biological necessity Dr. Hardin denounced as "a damnable lie," claiming that war reduced humanity to an order of beasthood. In the European countries devastated of man power by the last war, the coming generation of men and women must of necessity be inferior instead of superior as would the children of the flower of our young manhood which died in the World War have been. The speaker denounced this continued preparation for future war; advocated walking straight into the front door of the World Court; and expressed the opinion that only the spirit of Jesus Christ throughout the world could bring about peace.

The entire evening program was a concert program of classic and folk songs given by Frances Ingram, former prima donna contralto of the Metropolitan Opera Company, assisted by Miss Babcock, violinist, and Miss Ringgold, pianist. The large audience was greatly pleased with the concert, judging by the applause of several numbers. The program for today will include a lecture demonstration this afternoon entitled, "As Others See Us," given by Mrs. Chester B. Story. This evening will be given over to a full program of magic and art, given by Mr. Henry and Company.

Arthur Houghtaling of Wilkwyck Avenue and Frances Klim of Gross Street Found Camping Near Albany—Case Held Open—Other Cases in Police Court.

Tuesday afternoon Chief of Police J. Allan Wood returned from South Bethlehem, near Albany, with Arthur Houghtaling of Wilkwyck Avenue and Miss Frances Klim, 17 years old of No. 135 Gross Street. Houghtaling was under arrest on a charge of abduction preferred against him by Mrs. Eva Klim.

From the information sworn to by Mrs. Klim at the time she obtained the warrant for Houghtaling's arrest she said that he had induced her daughter to run away with him. They had left Kingston in a Ford car and she had learned they were camping near South Bethlehem.

This morning an adjournment was taken for two days, when Arthur and Frances informed Judge Schirick that they intended to be married. If they are married before the adjourned day it is likely that the charge of abduction will be dropped.

James Kelley was found drunk at the West Shore station Tuesday evening by Officer Tierney of the railroad police. Judge Schirick sentenced James to five days in jail.

Richard Miller, a negro, was found drunk downtown by Officer Harpen. He was fined $5 and paid.

Menino Arroia was picked up Tuesday evening for loitering around Greenkill Avenue by Officer Burger. In police court Menino appeared to be ill and the hearing was adjourned for two days.

Government Cuts Nearly Billion

President Coolidge Insists Total Expenses Shall Not Exceed $8,000,000,000, Almost $1,000,000,000 Less Than at Close of War.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Aug. 6.—The preliminary estimates of governmental expenditures for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1925, were virtually completed today in the office of the bureau of the budget.

The estimates of the heads of the departments and independent offices have been pruned, trimmed and chopped off by Brig.-General Herbert M. Lord, budget director, in line with the policy of President Coolidge that the government's total expenses in the fiscal year of 1925-26 shall not exceed $8,000,000,000.

The maximum thus set by the president is nearly a billion dollars less than the amount which was required to operate the government in the years between the close of the war and the establishment of the budget system at the beginning of the Harding administration.

It had been estimated that the government would have a surplus in the treasury of approximately $25,000,000 at the end of the fiscal year 1926, but the president insisted that a reduction of at least $88,000,000 be effected, making the total possible surplus $108,000,000.

In making up the budget for the coming fiscal year, treasury officials have had to take into account the tax reduction authorized by congress in the last session, which reduced the government's revenues by about $350,000,000.

Within a day or two, Lord will take the preliminary estimates to the White House for approval. Then they will be sent back to the various departments with orders to make greater cuts in their requests for appropriations.

Christiana Did Not Drive Bus

Silas Christiana of Rosendale, arrested July 31 on complaint of Mrs. Mary C. deHertogh of this city, was discharged in police court this morning by Judge Harry E. Schirick when Mrs. deHertogh withdrew the complaint. She alleged that he drove one of the buses of the State Line Bus Company across the Wallkill Valley tracks on the Boulevard without first stopping to see if a train was approaching, as required by law. It was brought out that none of the witnesses were able to identify Mr. Christiana, and that, in fact, he did not drive the bus which was alleged to have crossed the railroad tracks on the day in question.

ARREST AGRARIANS FOLLOWING MURDER.

Mexico City, Aug. 6.—The body of Mrs. Rosalie Evans, a British subject, killed near her Puebla ranch, rested in a vault in the British cemetery today with the British flag above the coffin. Upon the arrival of relatives from California it will be buried beside the body of her husband.

A number of agrarians in the region of the Evans ranch have been disarmed by General Roberto Cruz, chief of military operations in the state of Puebla, who is conducting the government's investigation.

Among the seventy persons arrested the most important prisoners are General Goto, who was prominent in the agrarian movement in Puebla.

Stockings in History

The antecedents of present-day stockings were first worn by men, says the Detroit News. The early Anglo-Saxon stockings were known as "acin" hose and were a mark of wealth and station. They were made of leather and wrapped around the leg like a bandage. King Canute wore stockings reaching to his knees and striped horizontally in two colors. The introducer of what has become the modern sock was King Robert, while King Edgar enswathed his legs with garters of gold. The Norman conquest, however, brought a return to the cross gartering, and William the Conqueror's hose were of red leather over which there was a cross gartering of blue with gold tassels.

The dandies of France under Charles the Wise wore stockings of different colors on each leg. Black and yellow, green and purple, and green and yellow were some of the combinations they affected. The fashion of cross-hatching stockings with colored silks came in with Edward I, and long hose became the vogue in the fourteenth century. Queen Philippa, consort of Edward III, had stockings of seven different colors. It was during the reign of this couple that the circular garter came into use. Under Cromwell the gay colors and embroidered hose were replaced by sober black and brown, but it was not long before the bright hues returned. Then, with long trousers for men, cane socks, and silk-embroidered stockings took their places chiefly as intimate associates of women.

"Kansas" and "Arkansas"

There seems to be no connection between the words "Kansas" and "Arkansas," although both words are derived from the names of Indian tribes. "Kansas" is from the name of a tribe who called themselves "Kanze." The word is said to refer to the wind. "Arkansas" was the name of a tribe of Indians found within the borders of the state by the first settlers.

Winged Rod of Mercury

The curious-shaped wand that the god Mercury is always pictured as carrying is called a caduceus. It is a winged rod with serpents twisted about it. The wand is magical, according to ancient mythology; with it Mercury could give sleep to any human being. So Milton refers to it as Mercury's "opiate rod."

It boils cold over thirsty throats in hundreds of cool little splashes that say freshness and purity and ginger tang all at once. That's why they all like it!

UNION OF THE

Wade Will Get Another Plane

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Aug. 6.—Lieut. Leigh Wade, the American round the world flyer, who was forced down between Scotland and Iceland, will be given another airplane at Pictou, Nova Scotia, to accompany Lieut. Smith and Lieut. Nelson into the United States on their return. It was announced at the war department today.

Secretary of War Weeks authorized the assembling of a cruising airplane at Langley Field, Va., to be sent to Nova Scotia for Lieut. Wade, whose original plane was wrecked. When the plane is assembled it will be flown to Nova Scotia by Lieut. George MacDonald of the air service, who will make stops at Keyport, N. J., and Boston. He will arrive in Pictou Harbor a few hours before the arrival of the American airmen from Labrador.

Labor Denounces Davis and Bryan

Federation Leaders' Reply to Democratic Overtures For Support Denunciation of Democratic Candidates and Platform.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 6.—John W. Davis and the Democratic platform today drew a scathing fire from the American Federation of Labor. The executive council of the Federation, meeting here behind guarded doors, prepared a denunciatory reply to overtures from Democratic leaders who urged that the Federation's endorsement of Presidential candidates be delayed until after the Davis acceptance speech in Clarksburg, West Virginia, next week.

Samuel Compers, aged president of the Federation, drafted the reply. It was directed to William B. Wilson, former Democratic secretary of labor, one of Gompers' closest friends and workers in labor union movements. Wilson previously sent a communication to Compers asking an opportunity to present the Democratic labor stand, and Davis labor record, to the Federation.

Labor chiefs today charged that Wilson's message was forwarded upon the solicitation of Davis himself.

Wilson's communication, however, reached the Federation after the council had already endorsed La Follette and Wheeler.

Council members said today that even a suggestion was made to accede to the Democrats' wishes. Nothing, that Davis may say in Clarksburg, can alter the Federation's course in the presidential campaign, Compers' spokesmen declared today. This was pointed out roughly in the reply together with the statement that not only are Davis and Bryan "unacceptable to labor," but that the Democratic platform, particularly in relation to legislation regulating the hours and conditions of workers, "plays into the hands of labor's enemies."

The actual text of the council's answer to Wilson explaining in detail form why the Federation cannot support Davis and bitterly warning the Democratic plank on labor problems, probably will not be made public until tonight. The council spent hours wrangling over the wording, a few members opposing the forcible language used.

Married Women Not Benefited

British women marrying Americans, he said have found themselves without "any nationality whatever."

Fallon Goes on Witness Stand

Lawyer Accused of Jury Bribing Takes Stand in Own Defense—Says He Never Saw Juror He Is Accused of Bribing.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Aug. 6.—William J. Fallon, criminal lawyer on trial before Federal Judge George W. McClintic on a charge of jury bribing today took the stand in his defense.

Fallon sketched his life history, going into details of his early career in the practice of law. He stressed the inconspicuous part he played in the Durrell-Gregory mail frauds case, testifying he entered the case after the jury had been selected and knew none of the members personally.

Fallon's indictment resulted from this case, it being charged he bribed Charles W. Rendigs, one of the jurors, in an effort to win a verdict favorable to the defense.

R. J. Shanahan of Syracuse, N. Y., Fallon's counsel, conducted the examination.

Fallon's testimony followed that of Miss Frieda Rosenberg, his former secretary, who told of cashing a check for $1,000, given her by Fallon, at the restaurant of Joseph L. Paul, where it is alleged Rendigs received part of the bribe money.

Miss Rosenberg testified Fallon always carried a number of blank checks, some of them signed by his wife. The check in question that she cashed at Paul's, she said, was signed by Mrs. Fallon and she "imagined" it was payable to Paul.

"You think a lot of Mr. Fallon, don't you?" Millard asked at one point.

"Yes, I think a lot of him, but I wouldn't like for him," Miss Rosenberg replied.

When the trial was resumed today Fallon called several character witnesses to the stand. Among them was Charles C. Marlin, employed in the corporation counsel's office, Colonel Weeks, mayor of White Plains, N. Y., and Judge William A. Sawyer, formerly surrogate of Westchester county, and formerly partner of Fallon.

Each testified that they had known the defendant for several years and believed him honest.

Fallon drew the fire of Judge McClintic once when in questioning Colonel Weeks, he asked:

"Do you believe that William J. Fallon would bring a juror?"

This was ruled out of court. "Did you know Charles W. Rendigs?" Shanahan asked Fallon.

"I never saw Rendigs in my life or any other gentleman of that jury," Fallon replied from the witness stand.

The witness said he came into court after the opening of the trial of the Durrell-Gregory case.

Fallon under direct examination told of being admitted to the bar in 1909, residing at Mamaroneck, N. Y., his career as assistant district attorney of Westchester county, counsel for Mamaroneck, and other up-state towns.

"Wizard" Ponzi Out on Bail

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Boston, Aug. 6.—Charles Ponzi, erstwhile "wizard" of the foreign exchange, was released today under $14,000 bail furnished by Mrs. Estelle M. Malaguti of West Roxbury, wife of a prominent Italian manufacturer. The "debonair swindler," who has just completed a term in Plymouth jail for federal convictions, still faces ten state indictments. He immediately rejoined his wife, who, during his five years' imprisonment at Plymouth, had remained close by.

Ponzi was brought to Boston early today from the Plymouth county jail and his name placed on the docket of the superior criminal court. He was downcast for a time when he learned that the men who yesterday promised to furnish the security had withdrawn their offer and it appeared he would be lodged in jail to await calling to trial on the state's charges.

Ponzi and his wife were overjoyed when their country woman came to their aid with the $14,000.

The indictments Ponzi still faces are for larceny.

He was sentenced in Federal court to five years' imprisonment November 30, 1920, but was released today before expiration of that period for good behavior.

Investigations of Brooklyn Wreck

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Aug. 6.—Investigations were started here today of the crash on the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit Company's line last evening, when one person was killed and forty injured, eight seriously.

Fire Marshal Thomas P. Brophy was working along one line, and police, assisted by the district attorney's office, were conducting a separate inquiry.

The wreck occurred during the evening rush hour. A six-car wooden train, heavily loaded, crashed into the rear of a steel train standing at a station platform in Brooklyn.

The first car in the wooden train splintered instantly, partly telescoping on the steel car ahead. The second car telescoped the rear end of the first car. Most of the injured were in this car. The steel car, while battered, withstood the shock and none of its passengers were injured.

Fire started in the wreckage of the wooden car and added to the horror. It was soon checked, however.

Bernard Yachter, Brooklyn, a guard, who was in the rear platform of the first wooden car, was the man killed. His death was believed to be instantaneous.

Anglo-Russian Treaty Signed

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, Aug. 6.—M. Rakovski, head of the Soviet Russian delegation in the Anglo-Russian treaty conference, informed International News Service today that an agreement between Russia and England has been signed.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Aug. 6.—The stock market was subject to another test today, equally severe as the one which closed yesterday's session. Industrial and business new developments were uniformly unfavorable, particularly those emanating from the steel and textile industries.

Conditions were thus favorable for more realizing sales of active industrial and railroad stocks and selling pressure in the first three hours was quite heavy. Shortly after the noon period buying orders were seen to be on the increase and prices strengthened, many stocks going forward to higher levels than that of the previous close.

Railroad stocks were once again in the background, though price developments were generally constructive. It was reported that further conferences are taking place in the Van Sweringen merger though progress from this stage is expected to be slow. Pittsburgh and West Virginia gained a lap on the other merger stocks by selling up 3 1/2 points to a new high at 63 1/2 today. New York Central was active near its recent high and Lackawanna pushed through to a new high above 133 on further rumors of an impending stock dividend.

Money market conditions point to the possibility that the directors of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York might reduce the discount rate at their meeting today and considerable speculation is going on in Wall street as to the probable effect of the further reduction on the stock and bond markets.

The first signs of tightening in money rates will be the first real evidence of the business revival which everybody desires.

Mercantile and gas companies' stocks featured in a moderate rally in prices in the fourth hour, along with a few of the specialty stocks, including American Radiator, Congoleum, Cuyamel Fruit, Foundation Company, etc. Consolidated Gas sold at a new high for the year at 72 1/2. Brooklyn Union gas was up 1 1/2 at 70 and Columbia Gas active around 41 1/2.

Gas companies are rated high as public utilities and recent earnings statements have been favorable. Motor company stocks were not up to their usual form today. Studebaker and Willys-Overland reacted from high points but Mack Trucks sold in volume at the best price levels of the year.

Irregular developments featured the grain and cotton markets today, both of which were marking time on confused crop reports and absorbing profit taking. Foreign exchange was practically unchanged but strong cables sent some of the foreign government bonds to new high price levels.

No More Asthma and Hay Fever!

"I want every Asthma sufferer in this city to try my treatment entirely at my risk," Dr. Schiffmann announces. "Go to your druggist and get a package of my Asthmador and, should it fail to give instant relief, the druggist will cheerfully refund your money without any question whatever." The doctor says, further: "No matter how violent the attack, how obstinate the case, or what else has failed, my Asthmador or Asthmador Cigarettes will give instant relief, usually in 10 seconds, but always within 15 minutes. Hundreds of unsolicited testimonials abundantly prove what my remedy has done, and I know it will do the same for others. I am so positively certain that it will produce instant relief and will be found the best remedy ever used that I have no fears of authorizing these druggists to give this guarantee, or of their being called upon for the refunding of money."

No risk whatever is run in buying this remedy under this positive guarantee, and such a personal trial will prove more conclusively than a "free sample" could possibly prove. R. Schiffmann Co., Props., 1734 N. Main, Los Angeles, Calif.

THE OFFICE CAT

Brooklyn man called his wife Bratzil for a good many years, or in fact until she learned it was the name of a nut. Now she does the calling.

The trouble is too many employees just think they think.

Nowadays many a young man would get a hard bump if thrown on his own resources.

A man's interest in a woman depends on two things; her interest in him and other men's interest in her.

There is a man in our town, And he is wondrous "wised," What he can do with raucous and— Oh, boy, you'd be surprised.

Consider the whale—He gets into trouble only when he starts to blow.

Every woman envies her husband's watch—which he carries wherever he goes, treats as tenderly as a sweetheart, and never admits is wrong.

It has been our observation that the young man who married for money usually gets a life job as a lady's maid.

It was said a long time ago that beauty is only skin deep. In this day and age beauty is very seldom skin deep. Ask the druggist. He knows.

Certain brands of oil make poor lubricants for political machinery.

Judge Not.

What's the joke they are telling on the judge?

He fined a fellow convicted of forgery and took a bogus check for payment.

Always laugh at your own jokes; if you want anything done well, do it yourself.

If you wish to know whether a man has been at work, look at his palms. If you wish to know whether a girl has been at work, look at the third finger of her left hand.

The perpetual changes in the weather this summer leads to the conclusion that the women are trying to run that now too.

Fresh water fish must sing bass, because they never can reach high sea.

A youth, a maid, a bench, a moon,
A silence most intense;
A sigh, a laugh, a maid, a loon,
Embarrassment immense;
A waist, an arm, a squeeze, a kiss,
The pale moon over all;
O love! O joy! Ecstatic bliss!
A wedding in the fall.

I'm having trouble supporting my wife.
You don't know what trouble is.
Try not supporting her.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Washington, Aug. 6.—Deportation of Luis Angel Firpo, Argentinian prize fighter, was demanded today by the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Duets Pickett, secretary of the board, called attention to the deportation of Miss Blanca Lourdes, who came to New York on the same ship with Firpo a few weeks ago and declared "If it is right to admit him, it is right to admit her."

Firpo's case is now being investigated by the immigration bureau of the department of labor.

Colonials Win At Glens Falls

Take Fourth Straight Game From Larry Doyle's Outfit, Score 10 to 8—Hummer Allows Bat Two Hits—Dugan Gets 4 of Locals' 18 Safeties.

Taking Larry Doyle's Glens Falls combination into camp for the fourth straight time was an easy task for the Colonials of this city at Glens Falls on Tuesday afternoon. The Schrick maulers fell on Bober, of the upstate club, for eighteen hits and romped off with the game by a 10-3 score. Eight of the Colonial blows were extra base clouts.

Gene Hummer received the hurling assignment for the Schrickmen and held the Doyle aggregation down to two safe blows, only one of which did any real damage. The Colonial players made three errors accounted to a large extent for the Glens Falls men even getting a look at the home plate. Akins, the star slugger of the Glens Falls team, came through with one hit, a three-bagger, out of three times at bat. Practically all of the Colonial hitters took advantage of Bober's ineffectiveness and proceeded to fatten their batting averages. Every man on the club, with the exception of Robins and Hummer, came through with at least one hit, while of the rest Tubby Raskin was the only man who did not come through with at least two safe blows. Leo Dugan hit safely for his tenth consecutive game and celebrated by getting four, two of which were two base blows.

Kingston started the scoring in the second inning when they came through with two runs. Schwab doubled, and was followed by Coyne who came through with a blow of like proportions although Schwab was held on third. Flynn celebrated his return to the line up after a few days lay off, due to injuries, by hitting a single and scoring both Schwab and Coyne.

In the Glens Falls half of the same inning Hummer walked both Akins and Alexander and then when Deegan uncorked a wild throw, after picking up Yate's drive, Akins scored. The Colonials scored another run in the third inning and Glens Falls followed suit in the fourth stanza. The Colonials increased their lead to two runs in the fifth when they sent another run over.

The sixth inning was the big inning for the local club. Hummer was walked to start the inning, after which Dugan reached first on an attempted sacrifice. Both runners were advanced a base on a wild throw and scored on McCue's single. Raskin doubled to right field, sending McCue home and then Raskin scored on Schwab's single.

Glens Falls scored their last tally in the eighth inning.

The same two clubs meet in Glens Falls this afternoon with Russell as the probable hurler for the Colonials and Left Kineer for the Glens Falls club.

TAGGING ALL THE BASES IN THE MAJOR LEAGUES

The Yankees swamped the Tigers, 9 to 2, their seventeen hits including Ruth's 35th home run. The champions knocked Wells out of the box in the first inning.

Two wild throws by Adams, Cub shortstop, enabled the Giants to win in the tenth, 2 to 1. Blake held McGraw's men to four hits, but lost.

Pittsburgh took their third straight from the Dodgers, 3 to 1. The Pirates have won eleven of their last twelve games.

The Browns crept up to within four and a half games of the lead by trimming the Senators twice, 2 to 0, and 4 to 2. Shocker held Washington to three hits in the opener.

Faber and Thurston pitched the White Sox to a double win over the Athletics five to two and six to three. The Reds nosed out the Phillies in the eleventh, 4 to 3, after Philadelphia had tied it up in the eighth and ninth innings.

The lowly Braves succumbed again to the Cardinals 8 to 4. Clevelander bested Ferguson in a pitching duel, the Indians beating the Red Sox 1 to 0.

Doubles Today At Southampton

Brookes Featured in Singles at Meadow Club Tuesday, Beating Weinstein—Carl Fischer, Voshell, Whitbeck and Kinsey Brothers Other Winners.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Southampton, N. Y., Aug. 6.—

Norman Brookes, the Australian, featured in the singles at the invitation tennis tournament at Meadow Club here, eliminating Irving Weinstein, one of California's best collegians, and Hugh Kelleher, listed with the second ten in the United States ranking.

Brookes appears to be in fine shape, and though not taking competitive tennis as seriously as in his younger days, he is still able to hold his own with the best in the game. Brookes played his best tennis in the last set of a four set exhibition.

Weinstein failed to worry the veteran southpaw, who was playing and swinging splendidly, and taking the net at every opportunity against Kelleher, he was also doing considerable volleying, even coming up on his second service.

Brookes' next match is with Harvey Snodgrass and the former looks like a winner after close play.

Carl Fischer, the Philadelphia southpaw and former intercollegiate champion, is showing improved form. While dropping a set to Harris Fischer his form improved and his win from Gerald Emerson indicates that the match between Robert Kinsey and him will be hard fought.

Robert Kinsey won the second set from Ed Fibleman. Edward is a tall, slim player who has an aggressive service, combined with a steady net game.

Howard Voshell, the Brooklynite, had a hard day's work in playing two three set matches, defeating Low Daily and Schlesinger. Voshell earned both victories and it is good to see his improved condition and increased endurance. Babe Norton had his hands full getting by Herbert Bowman.

I. Whitbeck won from E. Hooker. Howard O. Kinsey won two matches from E. M. Edwards, of Philadelphia and Lewis White, Texas college boy. Today was to be devoted entirely to doubles play.

MISSOURI GOLFERS IN SECOND ROUND TODAY

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Onwentsia Country Club, Lake Forest, Ill., Aug. 6.—Two Missouri golfers, Miss Miriam Burns, of Kansas City, present, western champion and Miss Virginia Pep, of St. Louis, met today in the second round of match play over a course heavy with another night of rain. Miss Pep came through the first round of match play with a defeat of Miss Madge Miller, of Grand Rapids, on the 19th green, but was expected to have an uphill battle against the present title holder, who eliminated Frances Hadfield of Milwaukee.

Two favorites were eliminated in the first round, Mrs. Elaine Reinhardt of Dallas, who lost, four and three, to Dorothy Klotz, of Chicago, and Mrs. Perry Fiske, of Aurora, former western champion, who was eliminated by the same count by Mrs. Stuart Hanley of Detroit. Mrs. Hanley was scheduled to play Miss Dorothy Higbie of Chicago in the second round.
